NIGHT SCRATCHED

Trio of Possible Jurors Are Eliminated By Challenges

STATE WITNESS
MISSING TODAY

Detectives Are Hunting For Robert White, Of School Staff

(Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 19—Efforts to obtain a jury for the trial of William Darling Shepherd today, charged with murdering his wife's millionaire ward William Nelson McClintock, by administering typhoid germs, netted only one ground.

The three veniremen locked up overnight as jurors tentatively acceptable to both sides, were eliminated this morning and left in the jury box at the noon recess was three men whose availability had been passed upon only by the prosecution.

One of the men named as tentative juror overnight was dismissed by agreement. One was removed when the prosecution exercised the first of 20 preemptory challenges and the third was eliminated when the defense exercised the second of its score of challenges.

The disappearance of Robert White, an important state witness, was revealed today by First Assistant State's Attorney George Gorman, who expressed himself as being perturbed. He said detectives reported that White, former employe of Faiman's national university of sciences, by whom the state hoped to show that Shepherd had visited the school, had vanished Friday and that his wife and two children had disappeared.

White was known as Faiman's body guard at the school. It was he who had confronted Shepherd in the state's attorney's office a few weeks ago and declared he had seen Shepherd at the school.

When Shepherd was led into court at the opening of the morning session, his wife hurried forward and kissed him just as she did yesterday. A bailiff escorted her to her seat.

J. H. Shepherd, of Little Rock, Ark., brother of the defendant, also appeared as a spectator.

BELGIUM TAKES UP
DEBTS SOLUTIONU. S. Treasury Elated
Over New Plan
Adopted

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 19.—The first break in the tangle of inter-allied debts was seen today by the United States government officials in the announcement that Belgium is to take an independent position on the refunding debt to the United States.

In official quarters the information from the Belgian foreign office was accepted as being highly significant since Belgium must be classed as one of the major debtors of the United States.

The Belgian statement to the Associated Press created a feeling of optimism at the treasury.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—At a conference with President Coolidge, B. F. Yokum, retired capitalist, outlined a war debt settlement under which debtors would enter into a common agreement resting upon a long payment term.

Yokum proposed that an arrangement be made giving 100 years to pay the United States and other countries at 2 1-2 per cent, beginning two years after the obligation was made.

Separated

MARY HAY and RICHARD BARTHEMESS are separated. Richard Barthlemess, popular film actor, and his wife, Mary Hay, dancer, have separated. The news of their "agreement to disagree" came as a shock to their friends, who had long considered them the real life lovers of the screen world. Legal action may follow to determine the custody of their little girl, Mary Hay Barthlemess. Mrs. Barthlemess planned a trip to Paris with her dancing partner immediately after the separation.

PASTOR FAVORS ALL
WEATHER CHRISTIANGood Attendance At
Opening Revival
Services

The revival services at the Church of God opened in good shape Sunday despite some unfavorable weather. Monday night, Rev. John H. Kane of Birmingham made it definitely known that he believed in "all weather Christians." "God might let it rain every night of the meeting, and then what?" "As an evidence that we are revived or are being revived, let us be on hand nightly." These were some of the introductory remarks to the sermon, "Religion First."

Rev. Kane showed that much more attention is being given to the body of man than to the soul. He urged that the true order of things be maintained, which is God first, then others, then self, or righteousness, duty and pleasure. The sermon text was from Matt. "God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

The audience was shown why religion should be first. "That's its rightful place, and a man's religion is not what it ought to be if it is pushed to the back."

Both the pastor and evangelist are urging much prayer upon the people that a powerful meeting might be enjoyed.

Services were held at the L. & N. Shop today at noon and tomorrow there will be a service in the lower yard and Friday the service will be held at the upper gate.

Car Held Here For Birmingham Owner

Discovery was made that the motor number corresponded with the number of the owner in Birmingham whose car had disappeared. City officials are awaiting the owner's call for the car.

EXAMINATIONS OF
MILK SUPPLY HERE
NOW BEING MADE

Some Improvement Is Being Shown, Says The Director

CLASSIFICATION IS LIVELY SUBJECT

Much Discussion Now Engaged In On The Streets Here

Examinations of milk supplied here, along with the milk supplied in other North Alabama communities, now are being conducted by the Tennessee laboratory.

Enforcement of the new milk ordinance in Decatur, however, has not yet been started, sometime being required to get everything in readiness for the classification of the milk supply.

Dr. A. J. Peroio, director of the laboratory, declared today that already some improvement is being shown in the specimens submitted from Decatur, these supplying the milk evidently using greater care now than ever before in preparing the product for the market.

Dr. Peroio said that rapid improvement has been shown in the cleanliness and the gravity of the milk supplied in Florence, since inauguration of milk classification there. Specimens at the laboratory of milk supplied in Albany-Decatur and in Florence shows even without a microscope a big advantage in favor of the Florence milk, it was stated today by those who have seen the specimens.

There has been much discussion of milk classification here recently, milk ordinances having been before the councils of the Twin Cities for several months. The ordinance was adopted in Decatur, but failed of adoption in Albany. It is understood, however, that the proponents and opponents of milk classification are endeavoring to get together on an ordinance which will be satisfactory to the majority of people and health officials yet are hopeful that milk classification will be started in Albany at no distant date.

It was pointed out by them that the milk classification does not prohibit the sale of any kind of milk. The classification feature only requires that those who supply milk give to the product only the classification to which the dairy is entitled after inspection by health authorities, it was explained.

The Burning Insulation Frightens Folks And Panic Follows

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 19.—At least seventy-five persons were injured, two of them fatally, in a mad panic which swept a crowded East Side subway train as it was about to leave Grand Central Station today. A blown fuse followed by a series of electric light lamp explosions was reported to have been the cause of the accident.

The train was literally jammed with humanity when it came to a stop about a block from the terminal. Men, women and children were swept from their feet in the confusion that followed when the car rapidly began filling with smoke caused by burning insulation.

A short circuit had occurred, causing the motorman to halt the long string of cars. He attempted to start again with the result that every light in the car exploded. This was the signal for the panic that sent screaming, fighting men, women and children surging to every available exit. Windows and doors were smashed in the mad rush.

Scores were knocked down to the car floor and trampled. The confusion was added to when guards prevented the opening of emergency doors.

The lounge and several saloons of the nearby Hotel Vanderbilt were converged into emergency hospitals where 25 persons received treatment. Thirty others were removed to Bellevue hospital.

Holdbrooks says that Mulder shot him but the latter declared in jail here today that he did not commit the offense.

"Mr. Holdbrooks is mistaken, for I did not shoot him. I can prove I was at home four miles away at the time," he asserted. No warrants have been issued against Mulder. He will be held here several days pending the outcome of Holdbrooks' condition.

A Dollar Buys More Telephone Service Than Ever Before

With the growth and expansion of the telephone system to meet the greater needs of the State, there must be a continuous flow of new money to build the additional plant, and an increase in revenue to pay the cost of rendering the more extensive service.

Last year for instance the gross additions to the telephone system in Alabama required an expenditure of $1,469,566. Practically all of this was new money secured from investors.

This year the growth of the business in Alabama will require additions costing approximately $2,000,000. This money must also be obtained on the company's credit. And, as you know, the credit depends largely upon the earning capacity, as in any other business.

With the investment in service growing so enormously each year, the investment per telephone station is also increasing rapidly. Unless there is an increase in the revenue per telephone station, the net revenue will be so reduced that the company's borrowing capacity, or credit, will not be sufficient to attract investors.

The telephone using public is benefiting by the growth of the system. The service is now better than ever before, and is more valuable to the individual user as well as to communities at large.

Economical management and efficient workers have kept the operating expenses at a minimum, despite the increase of from 100 to 287 per cent in wages and taxes over pre-war levels and an increase of more than 65 per cent in the cost of everything else which forms a part of the telephone plant.

Telephone rates have not increased in anything like a reasonable proportion, and today your dollar buys more telephone service than ever before in the history of the telephone business in Alabama.

This problem is one of equal concern to telephone users and telephone company, but its solution depends largely upon the public's appreciation of its importance.

How the Lunch Hour May Refresh Brain Workers

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ONE of the foolish things we hear is the protest against "working the brain too hard." How can you stop working the brain? It can't be done. You think all the time and simply can't stop using your brain one way or another.

By continuing too long at one task is developed a form of brain fatigue. If you are an accountant you may get so tired adding up figures that they fairly dance before your eyes.

Any monotonous mental performance may produce painful mental fatigue. On this account it is wise to change from one form of application to another.

There must be periods set apart for relaxation and change of thought. One of the sections I have to lunch rooms in the executive offices of great business establishments is that the lunch hour is no longer a time for change and rest. Shop talk and business consultations are not restful or refreshing.

Many a querulous, captious, scolding, whining, cursing, caviling, peevish editorial is the child of a brilliant brain exhausted by too close application to the duties of the office. That tired editor should never eat his luncheon in the newspaper dining room. He should go out and mix with the world—with common men. He has been fed up on mental pabulum. He is suffering from intellectual heartburn. He must have a diet of simple brain food.

Why not assign each newspaper editor to one day a week of reportorial duty? That plan probably would result in a famine in the news columns, but there would be a feast next day in the editorial page.

Mental workers of every sort—not only editors, but authors, lawyers, statesmen, judges, professors, ministers, doctors and great business executives—must have mental relaxation. They can never get it by associating with their own kind. They must have daily contact with minds of another type.

If you take my advice you will cultivate friends outside your own professional or business circle, as well as in it. Your breadth of view and clarity of belief will be increased. They need to be, unless you are to crystallize and fossilize.

St. Paul had the idea: "Prove all things," he said. "Hold fast that which is good."

You can never prove all things by trying your thoughts on the same social group. You can never know what is good and worth holding to by pleasing a little circle of like-thinking men. Get out and mingle with your fellow men of all degrees. This will stimulate not only your brain but also your heart. It will send the blood with unusual force to every part of your sluggish body. Longer life and a more charitable one will be your reward.

Answers to Health Questions

S. P. Q.—How can superfluous hair be removed?

A.—By the use of the electric needle. This, of course, must be done by an expert skilled in this particular kind of work. For further particulars send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

CONSTANT READER. Q.—How can I prevent my daughter from sucking her thumb?

A.—Try painting her thumb with a tincture of asafoetida.

MRS. A. T. Q.—What causes a numbness in the arms and legs and also in the back of the neck upon arising in the morning? Would high blood pressure be liable to cause this condition?

A.—This is due to poor circulation. High blood pressure would have a bearing on the trouble also. Have your doctor prescribe for the latter trouble and see whether or not you notice improvement.

READER. Q.—What do you advise for epilepsy in a girl in her early twenties?

A.—This trouble is usually caused by an undue drainage of nerve energy. If the place of leakage can be found there are prospects of a cure. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. ## Thousands of Women Being Released Daily

The untiring work of the Nation's Foremost Authorities, Brings Freedom From Hereditary Bondage For Women.

The age-old impression of the natural inferiority of women to the prowess of man has been too readily and almost wholly indulged in by women themselves. But the real reason for this has been that woman was the slave of her own imperfections until now because the wonderful St. Joseph's G. F. P. was not introduced generally until recently.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. is making female weakness, painful and irritating periods, headaches, depression, melancholy and the attendant imaginations of inferiority a shadow of the past. It enables the excretory organs to relieve the system of the poisons which are the cause of the improper functioning of the bladder, kidneys, intestines and other organs. It cleans and strengthens them so they can assimilate the iron and vitamins from your food into your blood so nourishment is carried through the veins to every nerve, muscle and vital organ. That's what gives women vitality and energy, and their beauty reflects sound, healthy, strong and active organs.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. will help nature fulfill the obligation which she is due you. Thousands of grateful girls and women are praising it as only the tender hearts of our mothers, daughters and sisters can convey. Leading druggists everywhere are reporting amazing results by those who are using G. F. P.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Incappitated, mentally by shock, as a result of experiences during the World War, Renshaw makes a proposition to David Campbell, wealthy, elderly man of leisure, that for a year he assume responsibility for him (Renshaw)—practically "buy" him. Doctor Stanley, life-long friend of Campbell's, indorses the proposition, which Campbell, with some natural misgivings, accepts. The arrangement is that the young man becomes an inmate of the Campbell household, with the nominal duty of secretary. Renshaw meets Verity, Campbell's granddaughter, and gets the impression that she does not like him. Jenks, the butler, Renshaw also feels, is distinctly hostile.

CHAPTER II.—At dinner, a guest, referred to as Madame Hvoeslef, is not present. Renshaw has a feeling that the servants are spying on him. Jenks warns him that there are "queer things" going on in the house. That night he is disturbed by the appearance on the wall of his room of a small blue circle of light. Mysterious noises in the corridor outside his door cause him to investigate, but he discovers nothing unusual.

CHAPTER III.—Campbell tells Renshaw that the household is in some respects "unusual," but makes light of his story of the mysterious sounds. Renshaw meets Madame Hvoeslef, a foreigner, with an air of mystery.

CHAPTER IV.—Madame Hvoeslef asks Renshaw to go to New York, a short journey, on a mission for her. Next day, during the night the blue circle again appears and the mysterious noises are resumed. Arising to investigate, Renshaw discovers he is locked in. He hears the sound of a heavy body dragging itself up to the transom over the door. Then a hand appears, apparently seeking to open the transom. Unsuccessful, the hand vanishes, and Renshaw hears the sound of a heavy body crawling away.

CHAPTER V.—Remembering Jenks' warning, Renshaw tells the butler of the mysterious noises, but gets no satisfaction. Madame Hvoeslef gives him a handbag, declaring its contents to be precious, which he is to deliver to Mr. Atkins in New York. After dressing, Renshaw again finds his door locked, but it is promptly opened by Jenks. Renshaw delivers the bag. Hart, Campbell's chauffeur, who drove him to town, tells him Verity and Madame Hvoeslef are at the Waldorf. Renshaw, however, is vaguely uneasy about the handbag, and calls up Atkins. He learns that the bag he delivered contained only blank paper.

CHAPTER VI.—Meeting the ladies at the Waldorf Renshaw learns that Madame Hvoeslef's property is safe. The bag he delivered being a duplicate, for which no explanation can be made. ## GARNER PRIDE MADE MANAGER OF THE ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Announcement last week that Garner Pride had been appointed manager of the Albany-Decatur operations of the Alabama Power company was received by his many friends here with a great degree of pleasure.

Mr. Pride has resided the greater part of his life here and has a deep interest in the growth and prosperity of Albany-Decatur. He has been associated with the power company for many years, his period of service being interrupted only by his service to his country during the world war.

His promotion to the managership of the local holdings is a fitting reward for these years of service to his company and a tribute to his ability.

Mr. Pride becomes heir to a place which has been held by other able men. Messrs. Beauchamp and Shearer, his immediate predecessors, were men of unusual ability in power company management, but his friends predict for him great success in his new responsibilities.

The scramble by the power companies for a place on the river to build a dam below Florence, shows faith on their part that the government is going to carry out a real policy of development on the Tennessee. The value of a dam site at Colbert Shoals—or at any other location below the Wilson Dam, will depend very much on a full development of the river and regulation of the flow. With storage reservoirs and flow regulated, the locations sought now by the power companies will all take on new values. But so far as we are concerned here, we will be glad to have the government grant the permits applied for, unless such action would in some way interfere with the plans for a well coordinated development of the entire stream. There will eventually be power development enough in the Tennessee to supply everybody, and we will be glad to see this done. The fight of Florence in this matter has merely been to keep the power from Wilson Dam from being distributed over the country for the benefit of the power companies while the millions of investment in the nitrate plants was allowed to become junk. ## FRIENDS CLASH AND 17 DIE BEFORE ERROR IS DISCOVERED

Mexico City, May 17.—Seventeen men were killed when two groups of armed men, searching for bandits, met at dawn Saturday near Chihuahua and fought for two hours before they learned that the fight was among friends and that the other fellows were not bandits.

Fourteen agrarians and three soldiers were killed and many were wounded.

The agrarians finally gave way to the soldiers, and it was only when the troops moved forward to examine the dead that they learned they had been fighting the other searching party.

The battle occurred in Jalisco, in southwestern Mexico.

In a lesser degree, isn't the Mexican incident being enacted in thousands of other communities every day? People talk about each other, stage verbal battles, sometimes fight, misjudge motives, gossip about each other—and after all, many times they are friends in spirit, frequently seeking the same goal of achievement but by different roads. What a difference it would make, if we always sought the whole truth about our "adversaries" before we pitched in to clean them up.

HOW SHALL RAIL CARRIERS BE GIVEN PROTECTION AGAINST MOTOR CARS?

Some days ago The Daily published an editorial, pointing out the inroads that motor cars were making on the revenues of the steam railroads. The article raised the question of what manner of protection can be given to the steam lines from competition of commercial motor cars.

The Nashville Tennessean Sunday published.....ter-375-J, Decatur 232.

esting editorial along the same line, tracing the development of the motor car industry, under the heading "Growing Problem of Transportation."

The article follows:

Our first immigrants settled on the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf. It was not because they were inclined to an aquatic people, but it was the result of transportation requirements. It was vital matter to them to preserve their connection with each other and with Europe. They could do this by sail vessels and by no other means. So the Atlantic became their main highway, and almost their only highway for a number of years.

The next step was the development of transportation on the rivers and inland lakes. This was accompanied by the building of a few passable roads and the blazing of many trails that could be used by horsemen, and some times by special vehicles adapted for such routes. These two means of inland transportation developed slowly for a period and then with great rapidity. Rivers were dammed and improved and canals were dug at a great rate. The toll road, or turnpike spread its branches over the land, not only to accommodate local traffic, but to furnish lines of transport between cities far apart.

Along these lines the country made great strides, which were accelerated by the development of steamboats. If we read the accounts of that period we find that our forefathers of that age felt that a system of transportation had been invented that could be considered permanent and that all that remained was the enlargement and extensions of agencies then existing. No one dreamed of the revolution that was impending.

The next step was the discovery that steam would propel vehicles on land as well as vessels on water. Followed the enormous growth of rail lines. Trunk lines of railroad were rapidly extended to connect the larger cities. Then followed the growth of branch lines into the more remote sections. Within thirty years after this system was fairly started it was recognized as the king among the systems of transportation. No other agency could compete with it on even terms over any distance, where speed was a factor.

The railroads first supplanted the post roads from city to city and placed the stage coach in the museum. Then it began to check the growth of steamboat lines, and take their places. They began to increase their importance in local transportation and for short hauls as the country became more densely populated. As this local gained importance there was developed a lesser railroad called the trolley to give further competition to the turnpikes and land highways.

Then at the very period when it began to appear that all vehicles except those used on the farms would be designed to run on rails, the motor car appeared on the scene and made its first feeble bid for popular support. And this invention resulted in the most far-reaching and radical revolution in a nation's transport that was ever witnessed. We of this day have failed to realize fully the great change and its far-reaching effects, because it has unfolded and developed in such an orderly and natural manner.

But the problem raised by the growth of auto traffic is a very vital matter, not only because of its present effects but because of its future possibilities. It is interesting to contemplate that the auto has completed a cycle for us, and has brought us back to the habits of travel that marked our forefathers. Today, a citizen of Nashville's desiring to go to Washington or New Orleans can simply take his own family in his own vehicle and light out, just as Andrew Jackson did. Where one covered wagon crossed from the great valley to the Pacific slopes there are now a thousand automobiles following the same trails. The auto is the only transport that can beat all others, at any distance from one mile to a thousand, and hence its supremacy is established, and will remain unchallenged unless the airplane shall become more of a utility.

But the auto is demanding increasing millions to provide it proper routes. At the same time it is destroying the value of many branch line railroads and trolley lines. It is demanding great subsidies and destroying existing means of transport that are of great value and could still be of great use if they were not neglected because of our mania for speed and quick deliveries.

With private vehicles there can not, and should not, be any question of restriction or control, beyond police control. But with commercial vehicles the cause is different an here is the crux of the problem. Commercial vehicles, that is common carriers, in freight and passenger service are rapidly multiplying, and are fast lengthening their lines of connection. Here is the crux of a grave problem, affecting all the people, that begins to press for a solution.

The questions discussed by The Tennessean are timely. We are just completing one big road improvement program in Alabama and we are contemplating launching into another. While the cost of this work is being borne almost entirely by the automobilists, we must not overlook the fact that the railroads are among the largest tax-payers of the state, in fact the railroads pay a very large share of the taxes of the whole country.

The Daily holds no brief for these railroads. It does seem, however, that inasmuch as the rail lines are paying tremendous amounts into the coffers of states and counties and municipalities, that for our own protection, if not for the roads, we should endeavor to see that our governing agencies accord them some manner of service for the amounts paid. If the railroads were forced out of business, then it would become necessary for us to find some means of replacing the money they paid into the public coffers. Why would it not be common sense for us to give some thought to the transportation problem now, while we have yet time?

The automobile is here to stay. It has become a necessary part of our transportation system. There is no reason why we should expect it to do other than to carry its proportionate part of the expense of our government. Ordinary private cars now are carrying a heavy burden. In frequent instances, however, the automobile which is operated for commercial purposes, hauling passengers and freight from this point to another, pays little or no more for the privilege of operating than does the owner of a motor vehicle of a similar type engine. In some instances the retailer, who operates a truck for the commodation of his customers in the restricted territory of his own community, pays very nearly as much for the privilege as does another truck owner, who makes a business of hauling freight from one community to another.

The development of the motor field has been so rapid that many of the economic features of the development have been overlooked, but it is high time that our legislative bodies were making some investigations of the problem.

CONSTIPATION means SICKNESS

More human suffering, physical and mental, has resulted from constipation than from any other source. The entire future life of a child can be ruined by lack of attention to the proper daily movement of the bowels. If the bowels do not act at least twice daily it means constipation—that means the bowels are clogged up with the accumulated residue of five to fifteen meals or more with consequent pollution, poison and disease.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

For both baby and grandma, Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief to the most severe cases of constipation and the doses may be gradually reduced as Nature resumes her proper functions. 10,000,000 bottles used annually prove its effectiveness.

Would it be proper for a girl to give her friend a birthday present if she so desires? If so, what would be the correct thing to give? BABE.

BABE: It is quite proper to exchange gifts on birthdays, my dear. I suggest that you give your friend a good book, a pipe, or perhaps a cigarette case. These gifts are all sufficiently impersonal and will not cause embarrassment should the friendship be dissolved later on.

Tuscaloosa Asks For A Mail Route

(Associated Press)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., May 19.—Tuscaloosa is preparing to make a bid for recognition in the fight to obtain an airplane mail route through Alabama. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has begun an aggressive campaign to present Tuscaloosa's claim to the right of this city to be placed on the list of stops for planes. Fred Maxwell, Jr., has explained to the junior chamber his plans for directing the fight.

Tuscaloosa was one of the first cities in Alabama to recognize the importance of an airplane mail service having dedicated Druid landing field two years ago, says Mr. Maxwell. So well was the work of preparing the field conducted that little energy has been required to keep the property in condition since.

Many airplanes have landed at Druid Field and Tuscaloosa has been placed on all maps designed for aviators' use.

How to Solve It

Every number indicates the beginning of a word—if horizontal, crosswise, until the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, downwards until the first shaded stop below. Compare the synonyms in the appended lists to the spaces in the diagrams and fill in the words you know. These will give you clues to the more difficult words. When completed the words should interlock perfectly.

Moulton News

MOULTON, Ala., May 19.—The Lawrence County High school closing exercises began Sunday with the Commencement Sermon delivered by John L. Rainey, of David Lipscomb College, Nashville. The second event of the exercises took place with the alumni banquet Monday night which was well attended both by former graduates of the school and several invited visitors. The banquet was held in the new high school auditorium and was the first public gathering in the yet incomplete but already beautiful room, which has recently been completed sufficiently as to allow the exercises for the week to be held in it. On Tuesday night a school play is being given for the benefit of the school; class exercises Wednesday evening; the class play, "The Prairie Rose" Thursday evening and the Commencement Address Friday evening by Dr. Spright Dowell, president of the Alabama Polytechnic at Auburn. On Friday evening the school diplomas will be delivered to the twenty-seven members of the graduating class.

Although the school has been greatly handicapped throughout the year for want of suitable class rooms due to the destruction of the building on the night of May 31, 1924, yet in spite of it good work has been done; several weeks ago the classes were able to move from the court house to the rooms nearly enough done for use. Every effort will be made to have the handsome structure completed before the opening of the session.

The little town of Mount Hope, the west part of Lawrence county in one of the best farming sections of the county, has a market all of its own when it comes to poultry products; since the first of the year a firm at that place has been paying an average of $1200 the month for eggs and chickens. Other sections of the county are showing great interest in the poultry business through efforts of the county agent.

Eczema

Oh! The joy of a peaceful, restful night. What a wonderful "up and going" feeling follows such a night of undisturbed slumber.

Oh! What tortures—what agony—what despair—goes with the nights where eczema and other skin diseases hold power and drive away rest and peaceful slumber. For under the cover of darkness like crafty beings of the underworld these eruptions work their most serious havoc.

S.S.S. is the established conqueror of these annoying skin diseases. S.S.S. drives these ever disturbing elements from your system—elements that carry in their wake—lack of energy—undermining health! You may try in vain to get rid of them by using salves, lotions, washes, all to no purpose. You can't do it that way—the seat of the trouble lies deeper—impure blood trying to throw off poisons through the tender skin.

S.S.S. purifies the blood. It aids Nature in creating new red-blood-cells by the million! Blood-cells that send new rich blood coursing through your system. Red blood that drives away eczema—drives away pimples, blackheads, boils and rheumatism, too. An increase in red-blood-cells means added strength, added vitality and renewed vigor. Because the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. Start taking S.S.S. today and watch it rout that annoying, skin destroying, health undermining army that holds your system in its grasp! Learn again what it means to enjoy peaceful, restful nights of slumber.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

SPORTS

Athletics Suffer Setback At Hands Of White Sox. Senators Drop One to Indians

The Athletics of Philadelphia and present American league fame dropped an encounter to the Hitless Wonders, Chicago White Sox, Monday. The defeat was the sixth for the A's this season. Washington missed an opportunity to close the gap between themselves and the A's by dropping a slugfest to Cleveland.

Thurston hurling for the Sox allowed the Athletics 13 swats, but toiled manfully for fourteen innings finally wresting a verdict from Baumgartner and Lefty Groves. The Sox tied things in the last half of the ninth and battled valiantly until the 14th when daring base running by Barrett and hits by Kamm and Schall proved the undoing of Groves.

Washington allowed Cleveland to pile up a five run lead in the first inning and was unable to overcome the onslaught that continued throughout the game. Stan Harris rushed four hurlers to the mound during the afternoon but none were able to stop the slugging Speakerites. Washington allowed a chance to pull the A's lead to one game to slip when the Speaker tribe gained the decision.

Things were quiet in the Southern Monday when rain and wet grounds forced the Vol-Noogan and Baron Cracker game to be played at the hearth stone. Barons remain tied with New Orleans for the second position while the Vols are momentarily without opposition on the topmost rung.

The Consolidated Sunday schools and the Louisville and Nashville club meet this afternoon at Malone Park at 4:15 o'clock for the first city league tussel of the week.

Rumored petition by Detroit fans to the effect that Ty Cobb has served his usefulness and should be cast into the dump heap as a manager is a distinct shock to fans in this section. Ty Cobb is no doubt having his troubles with the club that was declared to be one of the best in the league and at this time is occupying the last peg on the standing sheet. It is through no fault of Cobb's that the Detroit team is in last place. There is plenty of fighting ability in the Detroit manager, it is his team that isn't coming up to expectations.

When the hurling staff is in the shape the hitting staff is in a slump, all but Manager Cobb. If they will leave Ty Cobb alone and allow him to work out the rough spots in his own team it is a sure bet that the Tygers will be in other than last place when the season closes.

SPECIAL MATCH

There will be a special bowling match at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday night at 7:30 p. m. to determine the winning team in ten pins at the Y. M. C. A. ten pin tournament has been in progress for the past nine weeks with the result that at the present the Bear Cats and Decoras stand tied for first place. This tie will be broken Monday night.

DIRECTORS TRIUMPH

Captain Wolfe of the Directors bowled the position of lead-off man or the victors, doing this with good success, making scores of 125, 135 and 132, total 392. Randolph acted as rear guard or anchor man. This position was also taken care of, especially in the second game when Randolph made high single score of 187 pins or the night, and high total pinnage 113. Captain Arvidson of the Dormitory did the pinch hitting for his team, bowling second high single and total pinnage for the evening.
